

WICHITAPEKINGTON

Insider dispatches from within the halls of power in Wichita, Topeka and Washington

- Home
- About
- Categories
- Archives
- Search
- RSS
- All Blogs

The Wichita Eagle | Kansas.com

WELCOME, GUEST

Log in

Register

CATEGORIES

AirTran

Animal Shelter

Bel Aire

blight

Bob Corkins

Boys and Girls Clubs

Brian Black

Carl Brewer

Carlos Mayans

Casinos

Chamber of Commerce

city council

City Hall

City Manager

City of Wichita

Commission

Council Elections

County

District 1 vacancy

Downing Concert Series

Downtown arena

Education

Election 2008

Election 2010

Environment

« Council approves downtown incentive policy
| City faces \$1.5 million shortfall this year, \$2.2 million next year »

County commissioners approve $11.6 million for I-235 interchange

Sedgwick County commissioners have approved adding $11.6 million to the capital improvement plan for a project that will improve the interchange at I-235 and Kellogg.

The money represents a local match for state funding.

Commissioners Karl Peterjohn and Richard Ranzau voted against the commitment, saying the city had obligated money for other projects of less priority. They said they agreed the project was important but felt city funds should be use for the local match.

Commissioners Tim Norton, Jim Skelton and Dave Unruh voted to approve the addition to the CIP.

By Deb Gruver

Posted May 18, 2011 at 10:29 a.m. Filed under Uncategorized

PERMALINK